kompiliert So I've been playing around with trying to run an nvidia gtx 980 in a vm through wine. I've followed this guide, which is a noobish guide. I'm able to get my machine to boot into the live ubuntu 14.04 (that's on the nvidia download link) but I can't seem to get my machine to boot into ubuntu 16.04. I'm getting the following error in the terminal: `err:file_open_path:ERROR_IO_FILE ERROR Opening registry hive (see system) Failed to open file C:/Progra~1/NVIDIA Corporation/304.109/en-us/nvidia-cg-toolkit.reg:Error loading module "" at 0x011720FD: 0x8024000b` This is the output from the command `winecfg` I can't seem to find out what else to do because I've tried following different guides but none of them have worked for me. A: I think the error you get is because your program, instead of creating the registry files, tries to open them, and Wine fails. In my experience the easiest way to use a Windows program with Wine is to first run the Windows program as a Wine virtual application on your computer, and then open the program from the virtual application's menu. If you do that, you should be able to see a Wine GUI application launcher, click it, and click on your program (like an exe file), which should create the registry files needed.
