From the author of the Distributed Denial of Service (DDoS) Exploit «The Golden Firewall»: «Within a few weeks of releasing the Golden Firewall I received numerous emails from owners of Virtual Private Network (VPN) servers who had been attacked and had no idea what had happened.» The Golden Firewall is a tool for repel. It takes advantage of the way in which the Border Gateway Protocol (BGP) is used to maintain routing tables. BGP uses a Least Cost Path (LCP) approach and by routing a loop within the BGP (or level-3) tables, it is possible to create a denial-of-service attack. Although the Golden Firewall can be used to create a denial-of-service for as many as 400,000 concurrent clients the user is only billed for the number of clients actually being maliciously routed. The Golden Firewall is an open source project developed by Mxit and is based on an older application called the «Golden Fencer» that is still in use to this day. The Golden Firewall is a part of Mxit's Bot Guard service and is used to protect Mxit users from a few of the more prevalent attacks. Screenshot of the Golden Firewall – Source: Mxit. It's a real-time strategy game. The player is able to take part in battles against the forces of the enemy. The game has two modes: Conquest Mode in which the mission is to conquer the enemy territory (playing for the side of the allies), and War Campaign (direct battle between the Allies and the Central Powers). La Grande Guerra is officially licensed by the Dante Alighieri Society and The Jack Tiberius team. This is a music production board game. In the early 90s the little pet project of the then quite a lot of computer heavy players. While the game is very easy to play with, the graphics quality is quite impressive. The game is set in a World War I world, which is shown through both travel on the world map and 3D combat on the battlefield. Technical features: • Historical themed high quality textures (textures are more or less the same as those of the popular RTS title, Warcraft). • Dynamic camera view. • 3D battles on the battlefield. • Combat network configuration. • Multiplayer mode 55cdc1ed1c
