After decades of security and economic collapse, an emboldened population came out in support of their leaders. For 24 days, the ballot box has been the sanctum of the Libyan people. With voting stations set up in Libyan communities in neighboring Egypt and in Europe, tens of thousands of Libyans voted by special ballot in advance voting sites, the polling stations they designated or those set up for them. So I'm missing a feature at the moment, which is: Item can have different type of parameters, e.g. in a sword, you can have properties like: Throwing speed Availability etc. Items can be "skinned" to be able to be rendered at runtime, e.g. a table for weapons can be rendered with a skin and then logic to see what is the right weapon can be implemented.
